"This education forms the common mind;
Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."

The St. Augustine Tribune has the following to say of the opening of the deaf school and the improvements that have been and are to be made:—

The School for the Deaf and Blind located in this city, will open the 1927-28 school term on Thursday, September 15th, with approximately 300 students enrolled, according to announcements made by the president, Dr. A. H. Walker. This will be the largest enrollment in the history of the school and eleven new teachers have been added to the faculty to insure proper attention to the pupils. The new teachers include:

Miss Grace Overfelt, Aux Vasse, Mo.; Miss Mary Vance, Talladega, Ala.; Miss Annette B. Dinsmore, Trenton, N. J.; Miss Jessie Ervin, Cambridge, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Darrel W. Rider, Malone, N. Y.; Miss Nannie Sloane, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Arthur J. Williams, Sulphur, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Grow, Danville, Ky.; and Mr. Edmund Buman, Washington, D. C.

During the summer months, the school buildings and grounds have undergone extensive improvements and at the present time a new dormitory and kitchen are under construction and almost completed. It has been announced that within about a month contracts will be let for additional building construction work, including a dormitory for girls to be similar in size and details to the boys' dormitory now almost completed. When the proposed improvements are completed the Florida School for the Deaf and the Blind will be a model institution of its kind and will be second to none in America, according to the plans as outlined. The school is situated on San Marco Avenue near the Fullerwood Park district and occupies a beautifully wooded tract that receives much praise and favorable comment from all visitors who see it. The school and its beautiful grounds are pointed out to our visitors as one of the city's points of interest and one of the city's and State's greatest assets.

Into the court house at Kissimmee on August 27th to meet H. S. Austin and Sara Frances Tuck and out came Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Austin. Sure enough, Mr. Austin had a marriage license tucked in his coat pocket and furthermore had everything ready to "tuck her in" at a well-appointed apartment house in Orlando. They are still being showered with messages of congratulation and best wishes upon their happy entrance into the realm of wedlock.

The statement in a previous news letter that Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Schmidt, of Grant, are proud possessors of two attractive children is erroneous. They have only one child of the masculine sex.

Those who traveled a great distance to attend a fish fry in Tampa on Labor Day, were Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Austin, of Orlando, Ben Lorenz, of Kissimmee, and C. J. Schmidt, of Grant. Wm. Hovious acted as chef, and his sea food was so appetizing that everybody present cleaned up everything except bones.

As Julius Hobart was starting for Clarendon, Arkansas, to bring his family home after a short visit, his wife and two children returned to Homestead sooner than scheduled. Consequently there was a happy reunion long to be remembered.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pollock, who have been spending the summer at Crozet, Virginia, are expect to return to their homestead late in the fall.

Walter Dean, whose home is in Auburndale, recently returned home from a trip to Virginia, where he packed vegetables and fruits the past few weeks. On his way back home he visited many points of interest in the States of New York and Pennsylvania. He traveled by motorcycle both ways.

O. W. Underhill, a former member of the teaching faculty at the School for the Deaf at St. Augustine, and now connected with the Morgantown (N. C.) school in a similar capacity, spent a part of his summer vacation in Florida, before proceeding to Chapel Hill, N. C., where he attended school of coaching and physical education at the University of North Carolina. He assumed his duties as instructor on September 7th.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Wortman, of Stuart, who had been home guests of the Ringlings at Sgrasota for several days; returned home on Labor Day.

Among prominent residents of Inverness are Mr. and Mrs. Laurence

H. Randall. Though formerly with the Citrus County Chronicle as linotypist for some time, he is studying the art of cartooning, preparatory to entering the employ of the National Editorial Association at Cleveland in December. Mrs. Randall was born in Dayton, Ohio, and graduated at Columbus in 1919, while Mr. Randall is a Floridian, attended school at St. Augustine and later went to Gallaudet College, where he met his present wife.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kessler, who were severely injured by an auto striking them as they alighted from a street car in Chicago, are pleased to learn their condition is progressing favorably. The Kesslers own one of the show places in Miami.

J. D. Cumbie is employed with Wright the Printer at Lakeland. His deaf sister, Velma, also lives here. They obtained their education at the St. Augustine school.

ST. CLOUD

Among the week-end visitors from DeLand, on August 20th, were Mr. and Mrs. Leon P. Jones and daughter Doris, former residents of this city. They returned home Monday afternoon. While here they were agreeably surprised to note some improvements that have been and been are being made since they moved to Volusia County. Thought they have made their home in DeLand, where they own a comfortable country residence, for the past year they have let it be known that in the near future they may return to St. Cloud to live permanently. Mr. Jones is at present connected with the DeLand Sud, as operator-machinist.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Wortman, of Stuart, called on their friends here late last August and lingered three days before they had to motor back home. Mrs. Wortman is a sister of Mrs. John Ringling of Sarasota.

Owing to a long period of unemployment, Nicholas Murphy is now a guest of the county farm and will not vacate until business conditions become normal.

The combined house and garage east of the city park is now tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sapp. Mr. Sapp manipulates the linotype keyboard in the Tribune shop.

Among the arrivals on Labor Day from the North were the families of R. W. Davis and Raymond Sapp, who have been spending their summer vacation in West Virginia and Ohio. They reported having enjoyed every minute of their visit, despite uncomfortably cool weather throughout the summer.

The writer, accompanied by his wife, went to Daytona Beach on September 4th, where they took part in a church service. They remained over to mingle with friends in celebrating Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Goetz were Labor Day celebrants in Daytona Beach. They made the trip by auto.

Gussie Bass, minus a school education, is making remarkable progress by educating himself. Though not active in society of deafdom, he is a good mixer. He has spent his whole life in the county.

The St. Cloud Tribune of September 1st pays high tribute to R. W. Davis, who is one of the most progressive business men and also a member of the local Chamber of Commerce. Of his latest installation of machinery, the paper prints the following account:—

Mr. R. W. Davis, who has served St. Cloud and vicinity for ten years as an expert dry cleaner and presser, has just completed the installation of the finest dry cleaning plant without exception, of anything within twenty-five miles of St. Cloud. This includes the very latest Bower System for the care and handling of cleaning fluid, a fine dry room and all the necessary equipment that goes to make up as modern a cleaning plant as can be found in the largest cities.

Special attention has been given to fire protection, the plant being so equipped that should an accident happen, all the cleaning fluid will be automatically dumped underground out of harm's way.

The addition of this plant places St. Cloud one step nearer to a place of prominence in the line-up of central Florida cities, and we congratulate Mr. Davis on this enterprise and foresightedness in making this step at this time.

The Silent Bible Class meet every Sunday morning at 9:30 at the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the preaching service is conducted here and out of town once a month or oftener. Singing is an invaluable adjunct to church worship, and the Mission has been made fortunate enough to secure singers at each service. Favorable comment has been made by hearing people on this "poetry of motion." The growth of this mission is, in a large measure, attributed to the vision of the pastor of the local church, who foresaw the necessity of this organization, so that the deaf of this state might be helped spiritually as well as materially. Originally the work was confined to this locality; now it has been extended to six stations with the prospect of more this coming winter. Although the mission has been founded under the auspices of the Methodist church, silent people of various denominations are to be found at every service.

DAYTONA BEACH

An elaborate program for the entertainment of deaf visitors here in the celebration of Labor Day was being planned, when A. J. Holland and his wife were suddenly called to Georgia on important business; there being no one else to consummate the plan, the day was given up to the enjoyment of social calls and fishing in the morning at the bridge. A few out-of-town guests were there to enliven the occasion.

The writer conducted a religious service Sunday afternoon at the Community Methodist Church and dwelt upon the subject of "Come-back." Owing to insufficient notice, there was a small attendance at the service. The next service will be held at Auburndale on October 2d.

Oswald Wehner and M. C. Holland are running shoe repairing shops of their own, and if their volume of business is any criterion they are making money work for them.

Having disposed of his business to M. C. Holloway, the cobbler, John Bailey is taking life easy, and while his future plans are not made known, he does not intend leaving town.

Max Kestner, the lone Frat, is back at the post of his duty in the office of the Daytona News-Journal as assistant makeup man, after having attended convention of delegates of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf at Denver, Colorado, last July.

Miss Frances Hawley is an active member in church and social life of local deafdom, and is seldom missed at any gathering. She is a popular young lady and has a large circle of friends who enjoy her acquaintance.

Max Wetherby failed to join in the painters' parade on Labor Day for the first time in several years, on account of his wife's sudden indisposition. He carries a card, and in spite of unfavorable conditions has worked at his trade most of the summer.

C. J. Holland is galivanting in and around his home town, and proposes to devote the remainder of his vacation to enjoying all sorts of recreation before assuming his work at the St. Augustine school which opens on September 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene and A. W. Pope, of St. Augustine, celebrated Labor Day and were entertained during their stay.

Out-of-town visitors here on Labor Day were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Jones, of Deland; Arthur Bledsoe of Sanford, and Mr. and Mrs. Harley Goetz, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Philpott, and R. W. Davis, of St. Cloud.

ORLANDO

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hower, of Akron, Ohio, stopped over here on August the seventeenth on their way back home, as guests of their old friend and colleague H. S. Austin, staying till morning of the next day. They expressed themselves as being charmed with the beauty spots in and around Orlando and Winter Park. They were favorably impressed with the future possibilities for themselves at Venice, Florida, after a few days' inspection in that locality, and expect to make their future home there in the next couple of years.

Albert L. Holloway, who has been the weather since returning from his first trip to New York state early last spring, is reported convalescing fast and to be able to resume his work at the office of Jacobs Printing Co., with which he has been connected for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Benedict, who possesses a delightful winter home on the east side of this city, are expected back some time in October from their country farmhouse in Godeffroy, New York, where they have been spending the summer months.

Mrs. Arthur Holloway, who before her marriage was Amelia Lorenz, lives on the west side of this city, where her husband conducts an auto painting shop.

We often sit and think of him,
When we are all alone;
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.

More and more each day we miss him,
But little know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.

We love him, yes, we love him,
But Jesus helps us bear
And gently called him away
To the happy golden shore.

We miss him, yes, we miss him,
But Jesus helps us bear
The sorrow of our lonely hearts
For we will meet him there.

HERBERT W. ROBERTS.

DROVE HIS CAR WITH A BULLET WOUND IN SIDE

Driving his automobile from State street avenue to the Eastern Maine General hospital in Bangor early Sunday morning, after he had accidentally discharged a bullet from a revolver into his right side while exhibiting the weapon to a companion, Harold Clark of 36 Union Street, Belfast, a deaf-mute, was reported Monday as resting comfortably with a quick recovery anticipated, barring complication.

The accidental shooting took place in Mr. Clark's sedan while it was parked in front of the residence of Leo Trainor, also a deaf-mute, at 9 State Street Avenue. Trainor and Clark have been friends for some time. They were seen about town Saturday night, talking their deaf and dumb language and laughing together, apparently having a fine time.

As shown by the investigation made by the police department, the two ate in a local restaurant at a late hour and then drove in Mr. Clarke's car to the Trainor home on State street avenue. Instead of going directly into the house, they stayed out in the car for awhile, and Clarke showed his friend a 32 calibre Colt automatic revolver, taking out the clip of cartridges before handling it.

Apparently believing that the revolver was then empty, Clark began to show Trainor how in worked, and in the process of this demonstration, it was discharged, there being one bullet left in the chamber when the clip was taken out. The bullet tore into Clark's abdomen and took an uneven course through the flesh, coming out at the back and passing through the rear of the automobile seat.

Knowing that Trainor did not know how to drive a car, Mr. Clark with great presence of mind and real grit, started up his motor and drove to the Eastern Maine General hospital, where he received prompt treatment. Dr. H. J. Milliken, county medical examiner, received word of the shooting from the hospital and he notified Chief of Police Moran, who sent Captain Phillips and Patrolman Foley to investigate.

The officers found Clark, Trainor and the automobile at the hospital and by writing questions on slips of paper, learned the story of the shooting from both the victim and his companion. These slips of paper, together with a report on the matter, were submitted to Chief Moran and the latter informed our reporter that the shooting was undoubtedly an accident. Mr. Clark's car was taken to a local garage, to be stored until he is able to drive it again.—Bangor, Me., Commercial, Sept. 12

AFTER teaching the deaf fifty years, Dr. William A. Caldwell has retired from the principalship of the California Institution at Berkeley.

We first met Dr. Caldwell at Philadelphia. At that time he was quite a young man somewhat resembling the late Weston Jenkins in feature, and also similarly erudite and accomplished. He has always been liberal in his views on methods and favored most forcibly the Combined System. As editor of the California News his scholarly criticisms will be greatly missed. His position on that paper will be taken by Prof. Winfield S. Runde, whom he coached for Gallaudet College, who was a student over a quarter of century ago, and, we believe, the first deaf-mute from California to enter Gallaudet. Incidentally, Mr. Runde was College Correspondent of the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL during his student days. It is our sincere hope that ease and comfort among his friends, his books, and his pleasant pictures, will make glad the coming days—and may they stretch out into many years.

Mr. George W. Berry has been appointed acting Principal by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, Hon. William John Cooper.

California

FIFTY YEARS AS EDUCATOR OR CALDWELL RETIRES.

Bringing to a close fifty years of active service in the interest of education, Dr. William A. Caldwell, head of the California School for the Deaf in Berkeley, will retire to private life, September 15th.

Announcement of Dr. Caldwell's retirement was made at a dinner given in his honor at the Hotel Leamington by members of the faculty of the school and their families.

For thirty-seven years Dr. Caldwell's field of labor has been among the deaf. That is the time he has served in the Berkeley school. Entering as a teacher, Dr. Caldwell rose to assistant principal and then to principal, a position he has filled for many years.

IS STRICKEN ILL

About six months ago, ill health forced him to relinquish active control of the school, although he has maintained general supervision over it.

His desire to serve until September 15th, was to permit him to round out a full half century in educational service.

George W. Berry has been acting principal during the illness of Dr. Caldwell.

LAUDED BY COLLEAGUES

Prof. Winfield S. Runde presided as toastmaster and spoke of Dr. Caldwell as a man. J. W. Howson paid him a tribute as a teacher. T. H. d'Estrella described him as the "friend of the deaf." George W. Berry enumerated the many personal traits that have endeared him to teachers and students alike, and Alpha W. Patterson, printer of the school paper, spoke of Dr. Caldwell as an editor.—Oakland, Cal., Post-Enquirer.

SEATTLE

The Lutheran's annual picnic took place Saturday afternoon, August 27th, at Madison Park with about thirty in attendance. Various games were played and prizes went to Mesdames Gustin, Gaertner, Fisher, Haire and Brown. A. H. Koberstein was awarded a field glass in a raffle game. At eight o'clock the merry-makers dispersed, some going to the Dorteros' home for a farewell party for Mrs. Bertha Wilson, some to the homes of the Roots and Reeves for a game of 500.

Mrs. Bertha Wilson, who has many friends, was presented with a nice parting gift at the party. She took the steamer "Nelson" to San Francisco, September 29th, to see the world. She is an independent young lady.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bertram motored to Tacoma, one Sunday morning, the former to play golf with his friends while the latter visited with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Key at their new home. She accompanied them to the Lutheran Church for the deaf.

Mr. and Mrs. John Skoglund and two children, of Spokane, motored to Seattle, August 21st, to visit at the former's home in Jovita. They drove to Seattle and after taking dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Claire Reeves, called on the family of the writer. At the Reeves' invitation they stopped overnight at the Reeves' apartment.

Before returning home they drove down to Vancouver to make a friendly call on the Hunters and Divines.

On Labor Day, showers were general over the Puget Sound country and kept many of the deaf at home. Notwithstanding about twenty braved the rain and picniced at Magnolia Bluff under shelter. After a bountiful repast, they spent the rest of the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Axt, a few blocks from the park. The committee for this picnic was chairman Mrs. Victoria Smith, Mrs. Pauline Gustin and Miss Doris Nelson.

Miss Mabel Segel, of Tacoma, and Mr. Allen, of Portland, Ore., were the out-of-town visitors at the Seattle picnic, Labor Day. Miss Segel is still in town, the guest of her cousins.

Jack Bertram, Hugo Holcombe, of Seattle, Thys Ferwerda and Mr. Holtenbeck, of Anacortes went on the excursion to Portland, on Labor Day. Mr. Bertram continued on to Salem and was the guest of Professor and Mrs. Lindstrom for a couple days, taking in the meeting of the new association of the Oregon Alumni.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wood with Miss Freese and Frank Kelly in their car drove to Aberdeen, Labor Day, enjoying the good times given by several of the deaf there.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerick, of that town, were all smiles on account of the arrival of a baby girl in their family.

Marion Bertram returned home a week before Labor Day, from her grandfather's ranch in Oregon, to take up some committee work of the Franklin High school. She is the girls' club president and the first child of deaf parents in Seattle winning the honor. John, her brother came home alone a few days later, feeling like a big man, though he was very loath to leave the farm, where he enjoyed every minute of his visit. He went hunting and horseback riding every day.

Alice Reeves returned home Saturday night from Spokane, after a six week vacation with her aunts and uncles, the Chambers and Barneys.

Mr. and Mrs. John Adams' daughter, son-in-law and two babies, visited them Labor Day. They motored from Oregon and returned home the next day.

Carl Garrison had a pleasant time at his home on Camano Island, fishing Labor Day. He caught a big salmon but forgot to share it with the writer. Charles Frederick, the owner of a large shoe shop in Stanwood, kept him company, rowing the boat.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wright took advantage of the excursion rate, going to Spokane for Labor Day and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Skoglund.

Sunday, September 4th, about fifty gathered at Manitou Park and after a big cafeteria feast, prepared by the Spokane association. James O'Leary, delivered a short speech. Mrs. O'Leary, A. W. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Skoglund were the other speakers. They spoke about the welfare fund which was defeated at the W. S. A. D. convention in Vancouver last June. Mrs. O'Leary, greatly loved among the deaf there, said a welfare fund is one of the features of most benevolent associations.

The day was ideally warm. The people visited the zoo in the park and the picturesque sunken gardens. A lunch, with ice-cream, was served in the evening and the crowd broke up to several parties.

One was at Mr. and Mrs. O'Leary's home in honor of Miss Spraux, of Butte, Montana. The guests were all young people and they reported a delightful evening. The host and hostess know how to entertain.

Mr. O'Leary has a badly injured thumb, caused by the slamming of a door on the train on his way home from Denver. The morning of Labor Day, three doctors inspected it and when Big Jim was not looking one of them snatched the nail off. A bone is broken in two places and they could not tell when he will be able to return to work.

Mr. and Mrs. Skoglund and their children and the Wrights were entertained at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sackville-West. Jack, who received his education in England, is a successful architect, working in Spokane for about ten years.

Miss Eva Hoganson, of Portland, Misses Spraux and Davis, of Butte Montana, Miss Morrison, of Pendleton, Ore., Mr. and Mrs. Miland, and Mr. and Mrs. Yost, of Yakima, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, of Rosalia, and Mr. La Motte, of Tacoma, attended the Spokane picnic.

John Skoglund took us to the Lutheran Church for the Deaf, purchased by the mission recently. It has a 250 seating capacity, a hall and a kitchen on the ground floor and a furnace. The Spokane deaf are fortunate to have such church. Jack then took us everywhere in the city, showing some of the big buildings, on which Mr. Sackville-West did architectural work.

We were driven miles and miles, enjoying scenes of big farms, orchards and of immense volcanic rocks.

At the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Erve Chambers and Mr. and Mrs. Barneys, there are all kinds of vegetables, a cow, goats, pigs, chickens, squabs and many pretty flowers. They told the Seattle visitors to help themselves to anything on the ranch and Mr. Wright replied he would take one of the pigs and dress it for pork.

The Skoglund have a nice Essex coach and a couple acres of land, planted in potatoes, though the land was bought for investment. Mr. Skoglund has been an ad man on the Spokane Chronicle for several years. This little family of four resides with Mrs. Bergerson, mother of Mrs. Skoglund at her desire. She has a handsome income and is a great friend of the deaf.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, of Rosalia, have three sons, 16, 18 and 20 years old respectively. The oldest is teaching this year, the second is entering the state agricultural college and the youngest is a senior in high school.

The Partridge family visited Mt. Rainier recently. Mrs. Partridge's brother from Missouri, an insurance man, accompanied them. He has a position in Seattle and will send for his wife. Mr. Partridge and his children, Robert and Mabel, climbed up to Anvil Rock, 9000 feet above, the sea level.

Lawrence Belser's mother surprised him, coming from Wenatchee while the younger Mr. Belser was in Camano with Mrs. N. C. Garrison. The Bersers have moved to the Woodland Park district not far from the Partidges. They have rented a five room, one floor cottage which they secured for the sake of their little boy who has been in a hospital with a troublesome knee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harris drove to Green River Gorge twice a little while ago, and the men each time were successful in catching numerous rainbow trout. Two of them measured seventeen inches long.

Hans Christensen, of Salem, Ore., was with us three weeks, looking into the printing situation. It was not encouraging and he returned home.

Eddie Speeler, after a month's practice with his car, drove to Anacortes. Next to his wife, he thinks the world of his car.

Miss Hannah Gumaer, daughter of Charles Al Gumaer, and Mr. Joe Blackman were quietly married, August 18th, with a few intimate friends invited. Mr. Blackman's father, a minister, came from Spokane and performed the ceremony.

Rev. George W. Gaertner recently took his family, accompanied by Mrs. Wildfang and Mrs. Eaton, to spend the day in the country with a sister of the last named, Mrs. Cassels, of Medina. The auto trip was delightful to Mrs. Eaton, who had never been around the southern end of our beautiful Lake Washington.

They were later taken by surprise when another auto load of relatives arrived from Seattle. Among them was a cousin from Cleveland, O. She is a teacher in the Bible Institution Los Angeles.

Mrs. Eaton and Mrs. Wildfang remained overnight, saying it was a rare treat to visit in the beautiful country. They are full of hopes for another visit before the rainy season arrives.

Miss Annie Kingdon and her mother, after visiting relatives in Elma and Aberdeen, journeyed to Port Angeles, where her grandmother owns a big farm. They were there for over a week.

The other day Mrs. Pauline Gustin entertained at a dinner, Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. Wildfang and Misses Annie Kingdon and Bloomquist.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Khun were very glad to welcome them back into their midst. They have, for four years, been living in Los Angeles. They have settled down in their old home near Mr. and Mrs. Bert Haire.

Paul, the little son of Rev. and Mrs. Gaertner, considers himself quite a big boy now. He has just started school with his older brother. Both boys are attending the Trinity Lutheran school. Rev. Gaertner was presented with six dollars for his birthday at this month's meeting of the Ladies' Aid and the Men's Conference. He is a wonderful minister for he continues his plans, helping the unfortunate. There is a lady, not a member of the Lutheran church, living with a generous Lutheran family. A purse was made up and donated to her. On account of illness, she has been unable to support herself.

PHILADELPHIA

News items for this column should be sent to James Reider, 1538 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Jewish Exponent reported the Zimble-Klaits marriage as follows:—

Miss Mary J. Klaits, daughter of Rabbi Joseph Klaits, 1526 North Sixth Street, was married to Mr. Nathan N. Zimble, on Sunday last. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Marvin Nathan, in the Beth Israel Synagogue. Both the bride and groom were teachers last year at the Little Rock School for the Deaf at Little Rock, Ark. Following the wedding, the couple left for Boston, where they will spend their honeymoon. Mr. Zimble, who is 24 years old, and his bride, who is 23, will teach again at the Little Rock this year. Dr. Louis Levin was best man, and Lenora Klaits, sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

Mr. Louis Lovett, former Philadelphia, and now working in the Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., gave his friends of the Beth Israel Association of the Deaf a surprise by turning up unexpected at its rooms last Sunday afternoon, September 18th. The trip from the Capital City was made by automobile as a means to benefit his health during his vacation of two weeks. He did not remain here long, as far as we know, but extended the trip to New York City and other places. Before moving to Washington, Mr. Lovett was one of the leading members and workers of Beth Israel Association, and his loss to the Association was keenly felt at the time.

By the way, the Beth Israel Association has been peculiarly unfortunate in the past by losing the very members who might have been best able to guide it to success as an organization, and in almost every instance the cause was removal from this city. Miss Klaits (now Mrs. Zimble) was also a promising leader before she was called to teach the deaf in the Arkansas School. In the absence of a real Moses, there is little wonder that Beth Israel is unable to keep pace with other organizations of its kind.

Mr. George A. Jones has returned from an extended visit to relatives in North Carolina. He attended the convention of the North Carolina Association of the Deaf.

The Cheltenham, Pa., (which lies at the northwestern border line of Philadelphia) local paper reported the following item recently:—

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Paul and children, Chandler, Jr., and Gladys, of Franklin Avenue, attended a reunion of the Paul family in Indiana at which there were 250 present, coming from all over the different States, after which Mr. and Mrs. D. Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Paul and family motored over 1000 miles, taking in Ohio, West Virginia and other points of interest. They were away over two weeks, having returned home Sunday last.

The Pauls left here on August 13th last, by automobile, stopping first for a short while at Martinsburg, Pa., which is Mr. Paul's native place, and then proceeded to Indiana. The trip, both ways, was unmarred by any accident, such as tire busting, etc., and was thoroughly enjoyed by the party. The return home was on the last Sunday in August. Mr. Chandler Paul did the driving. Mr. and Mrs. Paul are among the oldest and best known deaf here and, except for the fact that they reside over the border line, they are Philadelphians in the main. We heartily congratulate them on their successful trip and safe return home.

The meeting of the P. S. A. D. close to Labor Day must have been especially agreeable to Mr. Gilbert Singerman, of Altoona, Pa., for thereby he was able "to kill two birds with one stone," and this is how. He first brought two children to the Mt. Airy School in his car and then proceeded to Allentown to attend the convention. His wife, who was also dropped here, lingered a while longer with relatives. We believe that she has since returned home by rail.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Schwartz had an enjoyable trip of slightly over two weeks, first going to Atlantic City, then to New York City and points on Long Island, and lastly to Allentown in time for the Convention. From there, they returned home.

The father of Joseph V. and the Misses Donohue is said to be failing, due to advanced age.

The Gallaudet Club is scheduled to meet at All Souls' Parish House on October 12th, Columbus Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Paul visited Wildwood, N. J., about two weeks ago and enjoyed it.

Commencing on Sunday, October 2d, All Souls' Church for the Deaf will resume the winter schedule of services, that is at 3 P. M., on Sundays.

CHICAGO.

Big men, little men, they passed in proud review:
I swiftly, shrewdly sized them up and wrote my views for you.
Events naughty, events nice, whether large or small,
My pencil "stepped upon the gas" and covered one and all.

Harry, Tom and Dick and Gib,
Kicked at what they'd call a "fib";
Every danged Chicago club
Swore I was a writing dub;
Every maiden, every man
Put me on the frying pan,
Called me lotsa names—ho, hum—
Not the least of which was "dumb!"
"Dumb" I am and "dumb" I be—
But not too "dumb" to disagree.
My seven years apprenticeship are over,
so I quit—
I draw my writer's Union card and hunt another "sit"

"There is a touch of autumn in the air," and the restless spirit of middle-age craves a change. So, after seven years conducting this column, yours truly is throwing up the assignment.

In a way the work has been interesting; yet it has serious drawbacks. There are more prominent deaf organizations in Chicago than in any other city in the world. Here are headquarters for the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf; the National Association of the Deaf; and the Knights and Ladies of De l'Epee. Chicago has the largest Silent Athletic Club—a magnificent $50,000 clubhouse half a block from this office. Chicago has several churches owned by the deaf, and the Ephphethans have just bought a 40,000 clubhouse on the West Side. There are dozens of others splendid organization here. Now, naturally the loyal and energetic members of each think their own circle is the most important one, and should have the most news. But—yes, a big "but"—the Pas-a-Pas Club (oldest independent organization of the deaf in America) is the only one assigning a man to "feed the press"—give the JOURNAL man advance information on its doings.

And not a single organization here recognizes press privileges. Correspondents are expected to possess magical mind-reading powers know what a committee will do; and correspondents are expected to pay their own admissions to write up the affairs.

Jacob toiled for Laban seven years—and got Leah. Yours truly toiled for Chicago seven years—and got a lemon.

The social season opens in gala array with a high-class affair on October 8th, when the frats of Chi-oral-106 stage their second annual ball carnival. They have forsaken my beloved South Side and its ever-growing quota of chocolate drops around the Silent A. C., and will stage their ball at the West End Woman's club, corner Ashland and Monroe, on the near West side. The high cost of wall flowering has taken a jump, as paste boards entitling one to be an exclusive wall-flower are quoted at seventy-five cents per copy. Still one can probably do more than seventy-five cents worth of rubber-necking at an oral ball, for this burgh teams with beautiful, chaste and charming Chicagoans.

LOST, STRAYED, OR STOLEN—One H. Crutcher, a near-humorist whose effervescent effusions have pestered the pages of the Silent Worker until my best enemies ask me why don't you write funny like that funny feller, Crutch? According to the JOURNAL, "Crutch" was crutching around these environs this summer, presumably on legitimate errands, but to date has failed to leave his calling card at the Chicago office of the JOURNAL, that the amazed natives of this tiny town can congregate to gaze on an honest-to-gosh humorist. From personal experience with humorists and poets, I daresay "Crutch" will not prove much to look at—a real newspaper humorist is the saddest looking bird in captivity. Still, ones pride of prestige is an aggrieved to think a fellow-scriver would not deign to drop in and say "Howdy," when haunting these hinterlands.

Fourteen "Owls"—the Gallaudet College sorority—attended the quarterly meeting of the Chicago chapter, at the exclusive Palmer House on the 17th. Three of them were visitors—Miss Ethelberg Zell, of Columbus, Ohio, twice National President; Miss Margaret Hauberg, of Arkansas, and Miss Katie Marks of Omaha. A new member was admitted to the local chapter in the person of Miss Myrtle Nelson, ex-'28 formerly of Minnesota. The other old birds present were Mesdames Roberts, Hasenstab, Frank, Erickson, Zollinger, Meagher, Henry, Whitson and Reed, and Miss Goldie Newman.

Miss Alice Donohue arranged a birthday supper for Mrs. Frederick Menken on the 18th. Mrs. Menken's daughter prepared a delicious repast for the dozen guests; her husband is owner of the Rendezvous—a famous cabaret on the North Side.

Peter Springer lost two middle fingers of his left hand on September first, while operating a planing machine in the Church Furniture plant. His firm is doing the right thing by him.

DENVER

Ye scribe has had rather a hectic summer, what with the convention in July and a trip to Minnesota via auto. Yes, suh! It has been a busy summer for us and other Denverites, and because of convention work, no news has been sent in. Nobody uttered a kick till recently, when the avalanche descended on our befuddled head with harsh commands to get busy and let the world know what is going on in the city made famous by the recent N. F. S. D. convention; so here we are again and hope Editor Hodgson will treat us akin to the prodigal son.

The social season has opened again, with the Frats staging a social on the 17th, under the tutelage of Francis Lewis Gajefsky, and we happened to be there and also were threatened with dire results, if we did not chronicle the event, and as we are fond of life, we make haste to let the world know that Mrs. J. Leon Harvat cooped the ladies prize, by showing she was an expert at cards when it comes to playing 500. The prize was an autograph album, and now Mrs. Harvat is ready and willing to accommodate the famous by permitting them to sign their names in that album. Ye scribe, feeling that he was somewhat famous in one way or the other, offered to start the autograph collection and got turned down cold. Such is life! We cannot recall who won the gents' prize, but we do know that Ray Alford and Rev. Grace tied for the booby prize, and when Ray drew a high card, he lost the chance of becoming famous, also of adding to his collection of what-nots, for Rev. Grace drew a low card and got a package of menidents, guaranteed to mend anything that leaks, so he says now he feels provided for the winter. Joe Haden proved that he knows more than anyone else by answering more questions correctly, and thereby won a nice fat cigar that looked good to all who had turned out to be dolts.

The Guild of All Souls' Mission engineered a social at the Parish Hall on the 23d. Ye scribe was absent, so cannot give details. After the Great Convention, Mr. and Mrs. Lessley entertained the F. P. Gibson, at their cabin at Red Feather's Lake. F. P. was very silent about his fishing luck, when he got back to Denver, and we are wondering if he waited to get back to Chicago before beginning to relate fishing tales. Will Brother Meagher please enlighten the world on this?

Verne Barnett, once of Colorado, now of Rochester, N. Y., is in Denver visiting his mother and incidentally looking the ground over towards remaining permanently in the Queen City. Hope he stays.

Wm. Greenwald was laid up in August and underwent an operation, the nature of which we do not yet know. Nick Rodriguez had an accident that necessitated wearing a bandage over one eye, last reports are that the sight of the eye is gone.

Mr. Rice and Virginia H. Johnson were married, August 29th. Mr. Rice is a linotypist in Englewood, so the young couple will remain in Denver for the winter.

James H. Quinn has gone to New York, with the intention of remaining in the East for good.

Richard E. Fraser, of San Francisco, is back in Denver after an absence of several years and probably will remain.

Quite a number of the convention visitors remained in Denver for several weeks after the convention had ended. At this writing they have all returned to their respective homes, we hope with great tales to tell others of the wonders of Colorado.

Byron B. Burnes, who taught last year at the Colorado School, is now a professor at the South Dakota School.

Mr. A. L. Kent and Mrs. Wm. Hunter were married in Wichita, Kansas, on August 14th. Mr. Kent is printing instructor at the Kansas School and Mrs. Kent is one of the girls' supervisors.

Miss Mary Logan, a teacher at the Montana school, was unable to return to her work when school opened, as a nervous breakdown forced her to extend her vacation indefinitely and a doctor's orders forced her to remain in bed for six weeks. At this writing, she is improving fast and hopes to be able to return to her work in November.

Rev. Mr. Grace left on September 23d for his regular trip through the sixth Province.

No frost in Denver yet, but it will be here anytime. Everybody is busy getting in coal and making preparations to meet old King Winter, and also have promised to keep ye scribe supplied with news, so we feel well satisfied now.

Dates ahead: Oct. 15—Frat Social, Probably a Masquerade will be staged in the later part of October. Oct. 21—Church Social.

There was an unusual number of out-of-towners and young folks at the D. A. D. Sunday evening. While we are glad to see them, it would have been to their advantage to attend the M. A. D. meeting.

Albert Zeiske entertained a large circle of friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Beechum at Ecorse, Saturday evening, in honor of his brother and Norman Crawford, who are to leave soon for Gallaudet College.

Mr. Domic DeFazio has returned from Europe. He is going to tell about his trip at the D. A. D. some Saturday evening.

DINNER AND PRESENTATION

Forty-two ladies and gentlemen sat down to dinner, as invited guests of Samuel Frankenheim, at the Boboli Garden at Washington Place, on Saturday evening, September 24th. A special menu was served.

MENU

Antipasto Relishes
Minestra Soup
Spaghetti
Roast Chicken
French Peas
Fried Potatoes
Lettuce Salad
Biscuit Tortoni
Demi Tasse

Before the service of the viands was begun, Mr. Frankenheim took the floor and told all that he was glad to have them share with him the joy of good health and happiness on this occasion, which was the anniversary of his natal day—at least one day beyond it. He requested that there be no speech-making, and that the time be filled with good humor and social amenity only.

What was his surprise and consternation when Felix A. Simonson arose and, felicitated the host upon his birthday. Those present had always entertained both esteem and respect for him and could not let the occasion pass without a light memento of the happy occasion.

With that, Osmond Loew passed to the bewildered Frankenheim, a fine Dunhill pipe, a magnificent tobacco jar, and a smoker's stand that looked like bronze and probably was bronze.

This was the signal for great hand-clapping, at the end of which Julius Seandel mounted a chair and gave an eloquent oration. He was followed by Marcus L. Kenner, E. A. Hodgson, Ardine Rembeck and Mrs. Alice Arnuth, who made the sweetest speech of all.

When it comes doing things, the V. B. G. A. does it. Last Saturday evening, the 24th, there was a fashionable card party on a large scale. The wonder is that there were three different games of cards kept going at the same time; a cafeteria running full swing, while upstairs various social games entertained those who were not interested in cards. The affair was under the management of Misses Eleanor Sherman and Alice Atkinson, and the proceeds were used to help swell the Jubilee Fund of St. Ann's Church.

About twenty tables were filled with card enthusiasts and the winners were as follows:—

Bridge—Mrs. Neis, Mr. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Tilton, Miss Lowry.

Whist—Misses Meyer and Andrem, Mr. Chambers, Mrs. Lewis, Mr. Barnes.

500—Mrs. Rappolt, Mr. Hitchcock, Mrs. Scotchey, Miss Fish, Mrs. Nimmo.

LEAGUE OF ELECT SURDS.

The League of Elect Surds held a meeting in the Guild Memorial Hall of St. Ann's Church for Deaf-Mutes, on Monday evening, September 19th, 1927, and transacted some important business, among which was the appointment of a committee to arrange for the fortieth anniversary celebration, to take place in February, 1928, will be a banquet, but the place is yet to be selected. The time is yet far distant, and the committee will no doubt be able to find one suitable to their needs. President Thomas Francis Fox presided.

A deaf printer in Thebodaux, La., who is a member of New Orleans Typographical Union No. 17, wants to come to New York, and asks the writer to help him find a job. As there are many printers in New York out of work, our advice to him was to look elsewhere. He didn't make a mistake in writing to ascertain about a job, while others during August came to New York, thinking they could find a position, but after a vain search, departed disappointed. There are several deaf printers in New York unemployed, and we know of several who have gone out of town in search of work. Deaf printers who think that New York is the best city to secure work should consider the above statement, then they will not have spent traveling expenses and been disappointed.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Morello, who have a manse of their own out Bellaire, Queens, way, essayed and did handsomely celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary, September 10th. A housefull of relatives and deaf friends contributed to making the evening pleasant. Dick Bowdren and Matty Higgins, among others, sang and recited in a way that called for encores.

A social gathering was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Loew to honor Mr. Fred Kaufman, of Chicago, whom his old classmates had not seen for over forty years.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Simonson, Mr. and Mrs. O. Loew, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lefi, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bachrach, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bloom, Mrs. H. Kane, Miss Essie Spanton, Messrs. Nuboor, Frankenheim, Gass, Souweine and Moses.

Mr. and Mrs. E. George Thompson, of Providence, R. I., spent two weeks visiting New York and Brooklyn. On Saturday, they were in Newark, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Balmuth, on Clinton Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson brought their two children and on Sunday, late in the afternoon, they went to Fanwood to visit the School for the Deaf. They were the guests of Mr. Lux for the evening. They will return home to Providence on Monday.

Fred Kaufman, of Chicago, Ill., who is a non-resident member of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, was present at the regular meeting, and before adjournment, was invited to the rostrum, and among other things conveyed the greetings of the Chicago deaf to the League, which in turn by an unanimous vote through him conveyed its greetings to the Chicago deaf.

On September 15th, there was a social gathering of boys and girls at the home of Miss Lillian Moster. Games were played and stories were told. Refreshments served. Those included were Misses Bertha Goldwitz, Alpha Schueller, Alice Altmayer, Judy Solomon, Goldie Aaronson, Messrs. Newton, Irving Epstein, Benjamin Mintz and Norman Magnus.

The family of Israel Solomon were the last to desert the shores of Keansburg, N. J. They got back to their Bronx home last week, all in the best of health, and vote Keansburg, N. J., just the place to spend the summer. Grandpa Lefi and his spouse, who were there, agree with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerson Wertzberger celebrated the sixteenth anniversary of their marriage on September 15th with a big party, at which Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Goldfogle were present. Mrs. Wertzberger is a sister of Mr. Goldfogle.

On Thursday evening, September 8th, there was a big attendance at the regular monthly meeting of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, which shows that the deaf population of our city has resumed their city ways—i.e., settled down to another year of hard work.

Ardine Rembeck is still with the Methodist Book Concern. They have moved their printery, an immense establishment, to Dobbs' Ferry, and Ardine commutes daily from his home on Marble Hill, New York City.

Albert Sgroias (known as Stoner) mourns for his beloved mother, who passed away on Tuesday, September 20th, 1927. The cause was advanced age and diabetes.

FANWOOD.

Almost every pupil was at school promptly on Wednesday, September 14th. The promotions and general classification had been made, so the school machinery started off with a rush, and now all are busy getting the education which will ensure success when school days are over.

Last week there were three Gallaudet College students here—namely, William A. Johnson and Charles J. Miller, '29, and David E. Mudgett, of the Class of '28. They were accompanied by ladies whose names the writer did not get.

The Palette and Brush Club held their seventh annual business meeting at the Studio on Wednesday afternoon, September 21st. They elected the following officers for the coming year: President, Herbert Carroll; Vice President, Leo Port; Secretary, Otto Johnson; Treasurer, Milton Koplowitz.

Mr. Fred Hoffman, a graduate of '27, paused for refreshments at Harold's Ice-Cream Parlor on 163d Street, before coming to the Institution on Sunday afternoon, September 11th.

On the evening of September 20th, twenty-four boys, with Mr. E. Hollander and Mr. C. Frisch, were invited to attend the athletic exhibition at the new Manhattan Casino at 155th Street and eighth Avenue. The boys were given a reserved row of seats.

Cadets William Horne, Allyn Manning, George Whiteman and Herbert Alpren are to compete in the Marathon from Columbus Circle at 59th Street to Port Chester, N. Y.—total of 26 miles—on October 8th. Mr. Frank Heintz, a graduate of '27, and a famous all-around athlete at Fanwood, is also to be in that race.

Mr. Max Cohen, a graduate of '17, was a visitor at the Institution on Thursday, September 22d. He enjoyed his visit here and was to leave for Minnesota, the next day, where he will be instructor of military training at the Minnesota School for the Deaf.

On Saturday afternoon, there was a baseball game between our Fanwood team against the Colonial team. The game was ended in the seventh inning.

At the beginning of the seventh inning, the hearing team made six runs and beat us by the score of 11 to 6.

The score follows:—

Printers Let Quad Box Grown Dusty As They Run Up String On Fishing Basks

The fifth annual outing for the employees of the Clark W. Clayton printing plant, 626 Bangs Avenue, Asbury Park, N. J., was celebrated Saturday, starting from Asbury Park at 5 A. M. they arrived at Beach Heaven at 7 where they embarked on the yacht "Nemo" and were taken to the banks, where good fishing started almost as soon as they were settled and for two hours the sport was good and exciting.

During this time 42 spot and 7 weak fish were taken. Then as the fun slackened the party went back to Beach Haven where a delicious luncheon was enjoyed. After a rest and games on shore, as they waited for favorable water, they again went out to the banks and were soon having the same good luck they enjoyed in the morning.

In all they caught 85 spot and 14 weak fish. The spots averaged about 2 pounds apiece and the weak run from 3 pounds to 11 pounds, 7 ounces. The largest was caught by Stephen Dundon, foreman of the composing room who won the prize. The "booby" prize was won by Joe Stein, who caught the smallest.

Those who enjoyed the outing were: Clark Clayton, George Reed, Fred J. Davis, C. H. "Pete" Falardeau, Albert Reed, John Davis, Stephen Dundon, Joseph Stein. They arrived back home at 7.30 P. M., a tired but happy party who will eagerly look forward with hope to have the same pleasure next year.—Asbury Park Evening Press, Sept. 19.

Gallaudet College

WELL, here I am again, all spruced up from a long three months' vacation to exaggerate everything as of old. Liz, my trusty old portable, has been carefully oiled, cleaned, and gravely admonished from the very start that she has a gruelling year of fully thirty-six letters ahead of her, but she clicks merrily on, not in the least daunted.

As might be rightly guessed, the cogwheels of Gallaudet College have resumed their annual grinding. If we are to take any stock in augury, we might be so bold as to predict by virtue of the unusual beauty of Wednesday, September 21st, that the Kendall Greeners have ahead of them a year of good will and peace. Wednesday was a day that struck the Golden Mean right on the nose, for it was neither too cold for the Southerners nor warm for the ice-bound Northerners. Wednesday, the up-to-then sedate Kendall Green was buried under an avalanche of gaily clothed students, preceded as of yore by the few who could not so repress their enthusiasm as to wait a few more days and followed by the inevitable number of laggards, loath to leave the comforts of home.

College Hall resounded day and night to glad shouts and back-slapping—and of wooden boxes battered open with hammers. As has been said somewhere, the words of youth must be read with a lexicograph. There was every need of one, if one were to hear himself addressed by wildly gesticulating youths, as: "Oh, you and your mug!" "Hoped I'd never see you again, but I'll put up with you this time!" and "What, you runt, here again?" Thought you'd been swallowed by a frog long ago!"—all of which meant merely joy upon seeing him again. As for the Fowler Hall coterie—owing to my humble College Hall identity, I was denied the privilege of seeing the girls greet each other, but fortunately, I was informed by a disgusted Co-ed that the usual amount of "molasses kisses" were given and reciprocated.

The Preps—ah, those gawking apologies for college students—they arrived in a brigade, 53 strong; 29 beauteous damsels and the rest merely the butts of College Hall jokes. After running our critical eyes over the whole lot of them, we can lift our eyes and indulge in a spirit of thankfulness that they are not any worse, and that none of them showed up in overalls. One good thing, however, can be said about them—quite a number of the Preps tip the scales in such a manner as to please even Coach "Teddy" Hughes.

The upper classman walking about on the campus feels a thrill coursing through his veins upon finding everything practically the same as it was last year, with the exception of the weathervane steeple on Chapel Hall being painted a dull red. Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet still holds Sophia Fowler in his arms and she stands stock-still, forming the letter A on her fingers. The benches sprawl out on the green campus in the same old haphazard fashion. Co-eds, with wispy things they call frocks, stroll about, exhibiting everything from sardines to vanilla in the way of bobs. Freshmen freed from the rigors of Prep life, swagger about in the front campus, ordering the Preps to do this or that. The ancient barbary berry bush still stands at the corner of the Chapel terrace. Though twining a shade lighter, the leaves of the trees clothe the campus in a beautiful green blanket. Yes, sir, 'tis a great life, that of a Gallaudetian.

If it means anything to you, Meyers and Haddad, the delicatessen across the Avenue from Kendall Green hung up for the nth time a well-worn sign reading thus:—WELCOME, GALLAUDET LADS. Business is humming, thanks to the Gallaudetians.

The halls of Gallaudet were thronged to overflowing Thursday morning, September 22d, with hurrying upperclassmen, quietly intent upon reaching their classes in time, and with bewildered Preps wandering about, searching for their classrooms. Once in a while a kindhearted upper-classman stops just long enough to point out to them their niches. The bulletin board, deeply scarred with years and years of thumb-tacks, is buried under a tidal wave of notices as to classrooms and textbooks and assignments. Those poor Preps stare at them and Mutter to each other, "How the deuce can I get my Latin unless I gotta book?" And a hawk-eyed Frosh pounces upon them and unburies himself of last year's books, and wheedles them out of prices more than half of the original values of the books and goes his blithe way. Such is life.

Deciding—as Kenall Greeners have concluded annually since times immemorial—that there were altogether too many "perfect strangers" hanging around here to be neglected any longer, the Y. M. C. A., in collaboration with the Y. W. C. A., conducted a "Get-Acquainted Social" on the night of September 24th.

The Student body and the faculty attended in full force and, speaking in stereotyped terms, a most enjoyable time was had by all. An innovation or two were introduced, to wit, everyone was asked to wear on his coat-lapel or on her dress a card bearing his or her name, class and native state, thus eliminating to a large extent the evil of forgetting one's name the minute after being presented to him. It is said by old-timers that such a practice existed some time ago but died out, possibly because of an ink shortage or lack of parchment. Thus was an ancient and defunct practice hauled out from its cobwebby recess in the attic and revived.

Thanks to the idea of giving publicity to native state on the cards, it was discovered that a staggering number of states were represented at this social. Only four or six states were left out. After a good many years' silence, New Mexico has finally seen up for our approval one of her senoritas famed for their beauty—and all College Hall is one in considering New Mexico as being very well represented. To all appearances Texas has the largest number of students present, there being fully nine, including a Normal.

The "Get-Acquainted Social" was a success in a social way, so the faculty has launched a much more practical "get acquainted" system, mainly for the benefit of the new students. For the present week there will be daily talks by members of the faculty which will have to do with the purpose of Gallaudet, the greatest benefits to be derived from going there, and advice as to certain aspects of college life.

This year's Normal Class consists of Edwin G. Peterson, North Central College of Illinois; John F. Grace, Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas; Elmer C. Humphrey, Colorado College; Isabelle Carter, Gooding College, Idaho; Alice Stevens, University of Texas. Rumor has it that another Normal is due to show up later but her name is not known to the students.

The curriculum has undergone practically no change except in that German has to all appearance been officially restored to the Modern Languages courses. Last year's experiment with the Class of 1927 proving to be highly successful, German is to continue with the understanding that the student taking either German or French must go through two years of the same language, as one can not be expected to become proficient in a foreign language with only rudimentary grammar as his base. The proposed Class of Journalism has not been formed, much to the disappointment of not a few of the students. No definite reason for not putting such a worthy class through is known as yet, but it might be conjectured that no professor is available for such a class.

FOOTBALL CHANCES A CLOSED BOOK

It is much too early now to make even a wild guess as to how our football chances stand this year. There is no denying that the graduation of no less than six letter-men crippled our football squad of this year. After taking a look at the raw material available, however, our hopes rise a little above the horizon. True, there are not many big Preps but they are in most cases stocky and speedy and we may be able to fashion a light and fast eleven.

Coach "Teddy" Hughes seems to the ignorant side-line spectator to have little difficulty in forming his line with the exception of ends, for which positions he is casting about for likely material. He has been setting the squad through their paces for the past few days and the work-outs are getting harder and harder as the days roll by, as there will be very little time in which to condition his men. The first game comes up on October 7th, when we play St. John's of Annapolis—that gives us only two weeks in which to whip the team into shape. But we are leaving everything in the hands of Coach "Teddy" Hughes and his proteges and are doing our full share of hoping.

IN DIXIELAND.

Speaking about the Florida School for the Deaf, a recent issue of a St. Augustine newspaper says: The announcement that including the building now under construction at the Florida School for the Deaf and the Blind, other new constructions at the bring the total over a period of less than two years to an excess of 300,000 has been made by Dr. A. H. Walker, president, who also states that, when all work is finished, the building equipment of the School will be worth more than a million dollars. A dormitory and kitchen, now under construction will be completed around the first of October.

In view of the appropriation passed by the recent legislature, making about $300,000 available to the school for immediate use, Dr. Walker said the early part of next summer will see plans ready for completion of both the girls' and boys' dormitories, and an enlargement of the dining hall and auditorium to connect with the new kitchen, now under way. Meanwhile, equipment for the kitchen and the industrial school will have been installed at a cost of about $25,000. Final realization of the program of expansion now in view, Dr. Walker said, will make the School complete in every way with the possible exception of a gymnasium which will be added later.

With most of the schools for the deaf in the country already looking to Florida as a pacemaker in this type of education, it is expected that when the new equipment has been placed in the industrial division, and when the faculty has been finally enlarged to meet the new conditions, the Florida School for the Deaf and the Blind will be at the forefront of the entire nation.

Noting the above, it seems a pity to this writer that our own Georgia legislature will not be as liberal in their appropriation for the Georgia School for the Deaf, as is Florida and most other states. They have the money all right, but through political manipulation the schools and universities for the hearing receive the larger share and the School for the deaf receives hardly a bare maintenance and nothing additional whatever for improvements.

The South Carolina deaf have recently lost a valued citizen and co-worker through the removal of Mrs. Jane Carter from Winnsboro to Charlotte, N. C. For many years Mrs. Carter operated a hotel at Winnsboro, which was widely patronized by the traveling public, and noted for its excellent table board. On account of most of her children moving to the Tar Heel state, and her desire to be near them, Mrs. Carter closed out her business at Winnsboro and has moved to Charlotte, where she has opened a select private boarding house at 911 South Tryon Street.

We are told that her new place has already made a good start and is filling up with teachers and college students and her house bids fair to become a popular home for this class of people. Mrs. Carter was president of the South Carolina Association of the Deaf for two terms, moving away before her second term had expired, and besides conducting her hotel business, took an active part in all affairs looking to the welfare of the deaf of that state. The deaf of South Carolina will miss her sorely, but every one will join in wishing for her all the good luck and prosperity in her new home. South Carolina's loss is North Carolina's gain. We commend Mrs. Carter to all our friends in North Carolina.

Mrs. H. E. Morgan, wife of Hewitt E. Morgan, a leading member of the Atlanta Frat division, died here at a private hospital on Sunday, August 14th, and was buried on the 16th, at Austell, Ga., the former home of the Morgan family. Besides her husband, father, mother and other relatives, she is survived by two little girls of seven and nine years and twins girl babies only a few days old at the time of her death. Mrs. Morgan was an earnest Christian woman and was prominent in the social and religious life of Atlanta, being the local treasurer of the Nadfrat Woman's Club at the time of her death. Her funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Freeman, with his daughter, Mrs. Simons, interpreting, and was attended by a large circle of sorrowing friends. She was quite a young woman, being only twenty-eight years of age when she died. We sympathize with Mr. Morgan in his great loss.

The Nadfrat Woman's Club held its first fall meeting on September 18th, but on account of the absence of several members who are not yet back from their vacation, no business of importance was transacted. The active business of the club will be resumed next month, at which time a treasurer will be appointed to succeed the late Mrs. Hewitt E. Morgan.

The next affair of anything other than of local importance to be staged in Atlanta will be the big basketball tournament, which is scheduled to take place early in February next. This affair is expected to be much larger and better than that of last year. The Atlanta deaf who have charge of the affair at this end are waiting the word from Mr. Underhill, the promoter, to get started in on making the necessary arrangements for the care and entertainment of the various teams while here.

Ex-pupils of the Georgia School for the Deaf held a Reunion at Cave Spring on September 2d, 4th and 5th, which was quite well attended, so we are told. This writer had planned to attend but was told the roads were in a terrible condition, so we abandoned our trip, not caring to wreck our car on these awful Georgia highways. Not being there, we are unable to write of what was done there. The pupils and visitors were the guests of the school during their stay, and arrangements for their entertainment were made by Miss Annie McDaniel, one of the instructors, with the aid of Supt. Harris.

Mr. Robert C. Miller, of North Carolina, who has been touring the West for the past year or more, passed through Atlanta on September 4th, on his way back to his home.

Tom, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Chambers, has been quite sick, suffering from typhoid fever followed by pneumonia. Fortunately for him both cases were mild, and under the care of a good doctor, and the careful nursing of his mother, he has recovered and returned to school.

Atlanta, September 20.

Central California.

I have been working some time in a California vineyard, owned by relatives of a family from Cincinnati, one member of which has occupied highest public office.

The flavor of California produce is right. Were you to go into your own yard and glean the ripe fruit or vegetables, you can get the right flavor. Were you to go into your home market, you may not get the flavor or ripeness you want. Shipping produce to distant markets requires certain conditions and certain varieties. The variety that ships best, keeps best, looks best, may not be the variety for flavor. Commercial practices are coming that allow ripeness in fruit for shipping. The best flavored, ripened, may command higher prices than you care to pay.

The legislature has passed laws to protect the state industry and the customer. Inspectors now pass on each shipment. Grapes can not be sold if below a certain percentage in sugar.

How to distinguish raisin grapes from other varieties, and prunes from plums. Raisins are grapes and prunes are plums, but you can not say grapes are raisins or plums are prunes. A raisin or a prune is a grape or a plum with a high sugar content that dries without rotting or souring at the core. But there are plums and grapes that have a high sugar content suitable for drying, but are sold in the fresh state because the price is higher or because the size does not allow of profitable drying.

The sun has been hot, fierce, but I have been working without head gear most of the time. It is cooler with the hat off. The sun is good for your hair, your skin, your eyes. The sweat and the climatic dryness help to cool you off. Try it. Go slow but keep at it. Save the expense of head gear. The doctor says, if the law allows, you better go naked. But as the law does not go against conventions, dress as sparingly as you can without offense.

Try and eat more fruit and green leafy vegetables. You will add years to your allotment of life. Your health will be better.
